

Requests to purchase advertising space will be reviewed by the Board of Directors on a case-by-case basis and should be submitted to Webmaster@ncazo.org. We especially welcome partners involved with the administration and enforcement of zoning. Regarding all website submissions, depending on the nature of your request, the time to post any approved material can vary. We thank you for your patience and interest in contributing to the NCAZO website.

Appropriate Use: Please keep posts in the discussion forum relevant to zoning enforcement and administration. We do not edit content on the message forum prior to messages being posted. You agree by using this website not to post any material or link to any material which is vulgar, harassing, obscene, invasive of another person's privacy, in violation of any copyright or intellectual property law, or otherwise unlawful. No unauthorized solicitation, spam, or chain letters are permitted. You agree not to knowingly submit any material which contains any virus, Trojan, worm, or other such malicious component designed to inconvenience, damage, or unlawfully cause any effect on any computer system. North Carolina Association of Zoning Officials reserves the right to restrict access or take any other appropriate legal action for violation of this policy.

Disclaimer: We do not guarantee the accuracy, completeness, or fitness of messages posted on this discussion forum. All messages posted on the discussion forum are the sole opinion of the author and do not necessarily reflect any official position or policy of the North Carolina Association of Zoning Officials (NCAZO) or its sponsors. Any person who finds any material objectionable should notify the Webmaster at Webmaster@ncazo.org. We have the right to remove any objectionable material and/or take any other appropriate legal action in reference to material deemed in violation of these terms of service and will take reasonable action to address any concerns brought to our attention. However, we are not liable for any delay in removing any such material posted on this website. Any website contained as a link, including its contents, is outside the domain and control of the North Carolina Association of Zoning Officials. As such we are providing these resources as a convenience and links to the materials "as-is" with no endorsement or warranty of the content on any link(s).

Privacy: The North Carolina Association of Zoning Officials will not sell or otherwise provide your personal information, or e-mail address to any third party for the purposes of unauthorized solicitation. All information gathered is that which you provide voluntarily on the message board or other portions of the website. Although we do have a counter to determine the aggregate number of visitors to the site, we do not attempt to individually identify personal information or the identity of visitors to the website or persons who post on the message board, except as required by local, state, or federal law for legal process or for the enforcement of the terms of this policy.

Purpose: The website is primarily designed for the benefit of members of the North Carolina Association of Zoning Officials (NCAZO). Its objective is to offer technical and legal information concerning zoning administration and enforcement as well as offer a forum concerning the day-to-day rudiments of zoning practice. This website is also intended to further public understanding and awareness of zoning.

Links/Submittals: Members' feedback is tremendously appreciated in keeping our website current and adding information most beneficial to members viewing the website. General feedback should be submitted to Board of Directors members in each respective district, as listed on the proceeding page. North Carolina Association of Zoning Officials may provide links to organizations of interest to those involved with zoning administration and enforcement. Members are welcomed and encouraged to submit any suggestions for links to other sites regarding zoning enforcement and administration. Additionally, members are welcome to submit any additional information in the message forum that they feel will be useful to the website, such as general questions regarding zoning, unusual or problematic zoning cases, local legislation, job openings and the like. Some material may be submitted to any Board member and forwarded directly for publication on the website. This generally includes the following:

1. Job postings from any public jurisdiction or private company concerning zoning administration and enforcement in North Carolina.
2. Proposed or existing legislation related to zoning in North Carolina.
3. Links to news articles concerning zoning in North Carolina.
4. Innovative zoning programs, policies or unusual cases relating to zoning enforcement in North Carolina.
5. Links to legislation, zoning programs, policies, unusual cases or news items outside of North Carolina but which may be beneficial to the advancement of knowledge and practice of zoning enforcement and administration in North Carolina.
6. Programs, policies, unusual cases or news items in a field with a relationship to zoning (i.e. planning, housing and community development, environmental health, etc.) that may be beneficial to those engaged in zoning enforcement and administration in executing their duties.

The Board of Directors has the discretion to determine if any proposed content meets the above criteria. Please be advised that content that does not meet the above criteria as determined by any Board member, may require a vote by the Board of Directors. Please keep in mind that the Board of Directors must carefully weigh the content to place on the website that offers the greatest level of relevance and breadth of information to our membership and the general public. We also reserve the right to request that electronic submittals be in an electronic format that is easily read from a commonly available application and will assist persons if possible on an appropriate format for submission.
